

SR Technics appoints Head for its international Line Maintenance business

Zurich, 1 July 2010

SR Technics has appointed Antoine Gervais as Head of the Group's international Line Maintenance operations. He is reporting to André Wall, Chief Operating Officer of SR Technics.

In his new role, Antoine Gervais will be responsible for all Line and Light Maintenance operations of the Group outside its Zurich headquarters, encompassing a total of 13 Line Stations.

"Line Maintenance is a core business of SR Technics", said Chief Operating Officer André Wall. "The introduction of this new role underlines our commitment to further develop our Line Maintenance services as part of our international growth strategy."

"With key functions such as engineering and trouble-shooting centralized in Zurich, the Line Maintenance network will continue to deliver the world-class quality and safety standards of SR Technics at competitive rates."

Antoine Gervais joined SR Technics in 2009 as Vice President Strategic Projects. Starting his career as a Structure Engineer and Certification Manager at Dassault Aviation, he later became Vice President Corporate Development at Jet Aviation. He holds an engineering diploma from Supaero in France, a Master of Science in Aeronautics from Stanford University, USA and an MBA from INSEAD in France.
